

Highlights this week

A Message of Thanks

I am writing this week's newsletter a little earlier than usual because I wanted to take the opportunity to share my immense pride in and gratitude for our entire school community following our Ofsted inspection this week.

Thank you to everyone who completed the parent survey and took the time to share your views. I would also like to thank you for the many smiles, kind words and messages of encouragement that have supported our staff team this week.

Everyone showcased All Saints brilliantly. As always, our children were a true credit to the school. They behaved impeccably, spoke with confidence and maturity and demonstrated their knowledge and learning well. They are a constant reminder of what makes our school such a joyful place.

I feel incredibly privileged to work alongside such a skilled, dedicated and caring team of staff as well as a community of families who recognise and support the unique values that make All Saints so special. Most importantly, it is a privilege to work with your wonderful children who bring joy, hope and enthusiasm to our school every single day.

I will be excited when I am able to share the report with you and to continue our journey of growth and improvement together at All Saints. Please note that it may take up to 30 working days (excluding school holidays) before we receive the final report and are able to share it with families.
